INDUSTRIAL-ORGANIZATIONAL PSYCHOLOGY. The Department of Psychology at the University of Georgia (http://www.uga.edu/psychology/) is seeking to fill one Assistant Professor tenure-track position beginning August, 2016. The successful candidate will have a Ph.D. in Industrial-Organizational Psychology and an established research program in any area of specialization relevant to Industrial-Organizational Psychology (e.g., selection, job analysis, job performance, leadership, motivation, occupational health, diversity and inclusion, and research methods) as well as the ability to teach related courses at the graduate and undergraduate level. The potential to obtain external grant support is highly desirable. The Industrial-Organizational Psychology Program has eight faculty members and 25 doctoral students. Successful applicants will join a nationally prominent and productive research faculty and a department interested in promoting the careers of junior faculty.

Athens, Georgia is well known for its quality of life with easy access to both outdoor and urban activities (exploregeorgia.org). The University of Georgia is located in Athens, Georgia, 61 miles northeast of Atlanta (www.georgia.gov; www.visitathensga.com).

The Franklin College of Arts and Sciences, its many units, and the University of Georgia are committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty and students, and sustaining a work and learning environment that is inclusive. Women, minorities and people with disabilities are encouraged to apply. The University is an EEO/AA/Vet/Disability Institution. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, sex, religion, national origin, gender identity, sexual orientation, or protected veteran status.

Candidates should apply at https://facultyjobs.uga.edu/ and include a statement of research and teaching interests, a curriculum vita, and reprints/preprints. Please also arrange for three letters of reference to be submitted at the same website. Applications received by November 16, 2015 are assured full consideration.